

Gift Guide

What is your natural gift utilized in the work environment?

When you desire growth of your natural gift, it might require work to understand it. Below is information and questions for workers, students, and owners of organizations. Your answers might provide information on understanding your gift and how to utilize it within the work environment.

This guide provides some of the information required to understand your natural gift utilized within the work environment. It was designed from information received from a study of participants who provided their information on utilizing their gift at work or within their organization. It is worth it to you, the organization and the environment to understand your gift.

Workers

What is your gift utilized within your work environment? Provide an overview.

Were you provided with information from others on how you are utilizing your gift? What was that information? Was this information received from other workers or managers?

What are the duties within your work that motivate you? Provide an overview of why these duties motivate you.

From these duties, what are your areas of growth? How do you know? Where did you receive information on your areas of growth?

From these duties and the information received, what areas do you desire growth? Why?

Students

What gift do you utilize or did you utilize within your work environment? Provide an overview.

Were you provided with information from others on how you are utilizing or utilized your gift? Who provided you with this information?

What duties within your work motivate you or motivated you? Provide an overview of why.

From these duties, did it motivate your area of study? Provide an overview of what motivated your area of study.

Within your area of study, what motivates you? What areas do you desire growth? Why?

Owners of Organizations

Do you own an organization? If you don't, is this something that you desire? Provide an overview of information.

Within your organization, what are the gifts that you utilize? Provide an overview.

If you desire to create an organization, what gifts might you utilize? Provide an overview.

When you worked for other organizations, what gift did you utilize within your work environment? How were you aware that you were utilizing your gift? Provide an overview.

What were duties within your work that motivated you? Provide an overview of why.

Summarize your understanding of your natural gift that you might utilize or utilized within the work environment. Provide an overview of what motivates or motivated you. From the information that you provided, what are your areas of growth?

Below is my information that you might utilize to further your work and understanding of your natural gift and how to utilize this information.

Denise Outlaw

1drdenise@gmail.com

